Belleville.

Dear Miss Guest:

I am glad to know that the proposed institution of a course for workers in Social Service by the University of Toronto meets with such cordial appreciation on your part, though the publication of our plan was premature. We are now working out the details, and hope to have something ready to submit to the Senate shortly, so that a beginning may be made next autumn. Even if we cannot do much at once, we can at least try to meet the needs of a few. I shall be glad if you will send us any suggestions as to what kind of work you would like to be undertaken by those in whom you are particularly interested. We do not want to take great promises and not fulfill them. Our hope is to do a little well and then to increase as time goes on.

With kind regards, I am,

Yours sincerely,

President.

Pelleville.

Dear Miss Guest:

Many thanks for your letter outlining the kind of training that is needed for those whose services are being more and more required in connection with the social work of the community. We cannot at the beginning undertake a very elaborate plan, but we hope to do something that will meet at least a part of the needs you outlined.

Yours sincerely,

President.
